Introduction

New Zealand is considered one of the world's most welcoming countries. Fun in New Zealand is about friends, family and welcoming visitors of all cultures. Feel the warmth of New Zealand's embrace as you visit the various prayer facilities available in New Zealand or enjoy our unique, halal-friendly cuisine. New Zealand food goes way beyond fish and chips and barbeques – our chefs have developed a distinct Pacific Rim cuisine. Expect to indulge in plenty of seafood, award-winning cheeses and of course, our famous lamb. You should also expect a laid-back, friendly atmosphere wherever you eat; we Kiwis love to keep things casual.

Tourism New Zealand worked closely with the Kiwi Muslim Directory to provide this guide, which gives an overview of the many Halal food options and prayer facilities available to make your stay in New Zealand a pleasant one.

*The information provided in this guide is verified at the time of listing.
The status of these outlets may change on an annual basis.
Please always verify all food is Halal prior to making any purchase.*

Acknowledgement

Tourism New Zealand is thankful for the continued support and guidance received from Federation of the Islamic Associations of New Zealand (FIANZ) and the Kiwi Muslim Directory. They have provided us with support and a detailed overview of both FIANZ and NZIDT certified establishments.

Through this collaboration we hope to offer our Muslim visitors a memorable visit to beautiful New Zealand. For more information on services for Muslim visitors, please visit fianz.co.nz and muslimdirectory.co.nz

ABOUT THE KIWI MUSLIM DIRECTORY

Since its launch in 2009, the Kiwi Muslim Directory's vision has been to utilise web and print media to bridge the gap between the various Muslim organisations, centres, mosques, leaders, volunteers and the community.

As a continued vision to support the Muslim community, the Kiwi Muslim Directory worked closely with Tourism New Zealand to create a Halal food and prayer facilities guide that provides Muslim-friendly meal recommendations in the hopes of establishing New Zealand as a Muslim-friendly holiday destination.

Explore the Hamilton and Waikato region, well-known for its diverse scenery above and below ground

Just south of Auckland lies the Hamilton and Waikato region well-known for its diverse scenery above and below ground. A myriad of adventure options await you; exploring underground caves, awesome black sand surf beaches and rolling green hills. These picture-perfect pastures were chosen for filming The Shire in The Lord of the Rings™ and The Hobbit™ trilogies. So, if you're a Tolkien fan, drive east to Matamata and visit Hobbiton™ Movie Set Tours, the amazing Hobbit-sized village created for the movies.

The city of Hamilton offers plentiful shopping, award-winning eateries, international gardens, and is home to New Zealand's only tea plantation, Zealong Tea. The Hamilton Gardens explores the relationship between people and plants in five themed garden collections. North Island

The Bay of Plenty has spectacular beaches and an active marine volcano

When the explorer James Cook arrived in 1769, he anchored off a great bay “full of plantations and villages” that he described as “a bay of plenty”. In this region of great natural abundance, the coastal city of Tauranga is a lovely place to enjoy fresh seafood, kiwifruit and avocados from dozens of surrounding orchards and gardens.

Explore further afield and visit the active volcano of White Island either by boat or via a quick helicopter ride from Whakatāne. Hear the active volcano as it hisses, belches and rumbles beneath you. It’s that same geothermal activity that provides the hot pools and spas that you will find in many places where you can relax and let the world pass by.

Spectacular highs and lows in Taranaki and Whanganui

On the North Island's western tip, Mt Taranaki's perfect cone rises from the green fertile lowlands below. In New Plymouth, Taranaki Te Kainga Marire has featured on Around the World in 80 Gardens. Te Kainga Marire is Maōri for 'the peaceful encampment'. The predominantly native garden weaves subtle textures and colours from quirky forms into an harmonious whole, including lush ferns, wetland plants, and alpine treasures.

Whanganui has its own distinctive wilderness landscape of river valleys rising to steep slopes, razor-sharp ridges and dense cover of native forest. This is backcountry New Zealand where you can take to the waters on a guided tour, follow the trails or listen to the birds in the trees - at night it's even possible to hear the call of the North Island brown Kiwi.

Nelson is inspired by sunny days and fertile soils

On the northern tip of the South Island, Nelson Tasman is a region that is blessed with a sunny climate and fertile river valleys. The seas surrounding Nelson are the source of some of New Zealand's finest seafood, and the sunny coastal climate produces grapes for wine, fresh fruit and produce.

The Marlborough Sounds are the sea-going gateway to the South Island and a natural coastal paradise. Get up close to abundant wildlife such as dolphins, seals, and blue penguins and listen to the chorus of unique native birdlife in the forests. Succulent New Zealand green-lipped mussels are in abundance, along with blue cod and other fine sea foods.

Enjoy close encounters with rare wildlife and soak up Dunedin's infectious city vibe

Dunedin has a rich Scottish heritage, historic architecture, and is home to more than a century old Larnach Castle Garden. The gardens reflect the owner's interest in New Zealand plants and in their southern hemisphere relatives, with a unique collection of plants seldom seen elsewhere. Set at an altitude of 300 metres in the castle grounds on the Otago Peninsula, it boasts a true sense of place.

Don't miss the drive out to the Otago Peninsula for endless views and the spectacular beaches. Nestled at the top of Taiaroa Head is the Royal Albatross Centre, the only place in the world on the mainland where you can view Northern Royal Albatross in their natural habitat. On Dunedin's doorstep you will also find the world's rarest penguin colony.

To experience scenic contrasts, head north to Waitaki and Oamaru for windswept coastlines and emerald plains bordered by towering mountains. Marvel at the ancient and curious Moeraki boulders on the seaside or spot the blue penguins and Hector's dolphins playing in the waves. Admire Oamaru's grand Whitestone architecture in the heritage precinct, and hire a bike if you're keen to follow the Alps to Ocean cycle trail which goes all the way to majestic Aoraki Mount Cook National Park.

Southland offers rugged scenery, native wildlife, and stand out local produce

Southland's largest centre is Invercargill. If you're a garden lover you must visit Queens Park and its 80 hectares of tree-lined walkways and diverse gardens. This city is the home of warm 'southern hospitality' so plan to rest a while.

Half an hours' drive south of Invercargill is the fishing port of Bluff, known for its fabulous seafood; this is the original place to taste world-famous Bluff oysters. If you like to get away from practically everything and enjoy some bird watching, catch a ferry across Foveaux Strait to Stewart Island. New Zealand's southern most outpost is where you'll find a haven for populations of native birds and your best opportunity to see the iconic kiwi in its natural habitat.
